Powering Business Forward

ISO 9001 & AS 9100

Quality Management towards Performance

How do I determine the impact of a Quality Management System on my organization?

Many questions arise upon the realization that a quality management system would be good for your organization. The answer is quite logical, but when caught in the operations of your organization day in and day out, it can become an ominous decision. Whether you know which standard you are looking for or not, MSI will be there to advise on the standard that best suits your strategy. If you are looking to improve processes to Internationally recognized standards, and benefit in efficiencies of production, then ISO 9001 or AS 9100 are the standards for you to consider. Eliminate system redundancy, gain operational efficiency, streamline document and control processes while providing confidence to customers is what the ISO 9001 and AS 9100 standards are all about. Carrying out operations as a registered AS 9100 or ISO 9001 organization will ensure you are a recognized business performing to standards above your competitors, thus offering benefits not only to your customers but your employees and bottom line.

What is Involved...

MSI's approach in preparing your company towards ISO 9001 or AS 9100 certification includes:

- Implementation Plan is drafted and presented to key management for approval.
- Establish documentation as it pertains to the ISO 9001 or AS 9100 standard and your organizations' operations.
- Manage implementation of your company's manual and procedures.

- Facilitate company overview and internal auditor training.
- Presence and coaching for successful Management Review meetings and Registrar audits.
- Coordinating the audit scheduling via the Registrar for successful certification.
- ISO 9001 or AS 9100 Certification Awarded!

How long is the process?

Depending on the size and complexity of your company and taking into consideration the number of products, services and locations your organization encompasses, achieving ISO 9001 or AS 9100 certification can take anywhere from three to six months. The typical timeframe for most companies is six months. MSI takes into account current applicable documentation to determine usage and quality as it pertains to the ISO 9001 or AS 9100 standard to assess an accurate and attainable time allotment for certification.
